I am looking for a way to change the table prefix in the database so i can run a migration that will automatically change all the database tables to use a different prefix. The documentation doesn't mention anything about a possibility to change the table prefix in database.

7 Quick Fix 1.2.0.0

7 Quick Fix is a tiny software that enables you to repair most of the common problems of the operating system, with the simple click of a button. The tool doesn't require any installation, so that means it is portable. Your Windows registry keys will not change and you can also place 7 Quick Fix on a removable device and run it on any computer. The user interface of the program consists of a standard window in which your 'quick-fix' solutions are presented, along with a description on the bottom side of the screen. Thus, you can enable "Task Manager", "Command Prompt", "Registry Editor", "Folder Options", "Taskbar Properties", Win-X shortcuts, "Display Properties", "Control Panel", "IPv6" (or disable it), as well as prevent the Windows update from changing the Sleep/Shutdown button into "Install updates and shut down". In addition, you can fix your system if the shutdown process takes a long time to complete or when thumbnails are slowly displayed. Also, you can restore the Aero function and revert the installer crash. Furthermore, themes can be prevented from changing desktop icons and mouse pointers, and you can restore missing system tray icons, repair the taskbar context, and more. The application uses a very low amount of system resources and, thanks to its descriptions, even novices can easily learn what hides behind Windows' most common problems. Obviously, more features could have been integrated into 7 Quick Fix (such as the possibility of enabling auto-play), but we still recommend this program to all users. 7 Quick Fix Description: + Automatically fix most Windows problems in just
