Action RPG game FEEL-REAL RPG game Role-playing game SRPG game Adventure game game game game game RPG game Action RPG game DERIVATIVE RPG game Crime RPG game VARIOUS SRPG game ROMANTIC SRPG game One-of-a-kind RPG game Action RPG game RPG game To this day, I still feel good when I log into my PlayStation 4 and casually pick up. It's just as much of a pleasure to me as the first time I picked up CD-ROM. It has been five years since the first Dragon Quest. If I look back at the long history of the Dragon Quest series, I feel like I've always been able to enjoy it from the beginning to the end. That's why I wanted to continue the series for so long, and why I still continue to keep up with it today. I think I felt that way because I was so involved in the world that I created for myself. Dragon Quest II The first Dragon Quest was released for the Famicom in 1986. At the time, I was full of enthusiasm for the future of gaming, and was even thinking about the possibility of making games for other consoles. But, I was still young and the development cost was very high. That's why I joined another company as a secretary, then ended up working as a design assistant. I was working under the aegis of another designer named Shun'ichi Ishimoto. His strength as a designer was that he was focused and meticulous. With that sort of man who had industry experience and know-how, it was quite fun. At the time, I was into anime. The Dragon Quest monster always captured my attention. In addition, I'd gotten used to the game when I was playing the first Dragon Quest. That's why it was quite easy for me to join the company. The Dragon Quest series was born in a time when my enthusiasm for gaming was on the rise. It was a game where I could quite freely express myself, so at the time it was quite fun. If I ask myself what I was doing in that era, it's certain that it was an entirely different thing from today. That was a time when I had a lot of fun.Q: How does the order of Daily Diary I'm on vacation and won't be posting for at least a week. Due to time constraints, I'll be posting once or twice a day and not at all on Saturdays. Enjoy. Family Life It's been a wild week with lots going on. Mrs. W has been at work and when she is off she can't sit still. She's walking around the house and even in bed. We've tried sitting in a recliner, with her legs up, in the shower, and in her bathtub with the plug-in thingy. I think she's been overindulging in my dog care products.
